This tour provides a unique opportunity to visit the Gallipoli Peninsula and is specifically and especially designed to coincide with the historic first visit of an Irish President to the First World War battlefields there where so many Irish soldiers fought and some 3,500 died. On Wednesday 24th March, the President will dedicate the foundation stone for a proposed memorial at Chocolate Hill to all the Irish who perished in that campaign and, in particular, the men of the 10th Irish Division. The Tour will visit the battlefields of the Helles, ANZAC and Suvla Bay Sectors and will enable members to participate in a remarkable journey of remembrance where the rugged landscape provides the backdrop to untold heroism, endurance and sacrifice. While in Turkey, the Tour will also visit the ancient site of Troy as well as the magical city of Istanbul, which is a 2010 European Capital of Culture.
